

Digital Research Methods

This course is designed to interrogate the ways in which online research is conducted. The material also engages social media, software, hardware and societal online norms.

Students will learn about methodology (the theory of method) and how to conduct a qualitative research study (method). Students will leave the course prepared to submit an Institutional Review Board application; the first step toward conducting a qualitative research study within and outside of an academic setting.

SPRING 2018 TH (Hybrid) 10:45am - 12:05pm